INTERNATIONAL COLLOQUIUM
THE RECEPTION OF GRECO-ROMAN ANTIQUITY
IN EUROPEAN CULTURES
14th EDITION with the theme:
UNDER THE SIGN OF THE MUSES
ROMANIA, CRAIOVA, SEPTEMBERth 29 2023

On-line la link-ul: <https://meet.google.com/rbr-auqk-yjy>

This year's edition of the colloquium aims to provide an interdisciplinary approach, from multiple perspectives, to ancient civilizations (mainly, but not limited to Greek and Roman civilization). From this perspective, the main focus is on the multiple roles of the Muses: in the pantheon, in mythology, in science, culture but especially in the art of these two Ancient civilizations.

The great epics belonging to these two cultures begin with a verbal invocation of the Muses. Therefore, the 14th edition of our colloquium is academically challenging, both for the organisers and the participants. It must be said that such a theme is related to both art and science, as the Muses were the patrons of multiple different fields of study/domains. Additionally, the theme is new and unique for the study of ancient civilizations.

We suggest that those who are interested in participating approach the theme from one of the following perspectives:

- philology;
- art;
- culture and civilization;
- history, and its related fields;
- sociology;
- mythology;
- philosophy;
- imagery;
- law;
- mentalities;

or by any means deemed suitable.

The languages accepted by our international colloquium are Romanian, French, Spanish and Italian. All contributions are peer reviewed before publication.

Those who wish to participate must send a MS word document containing: paper's title, author's first name, surname and academic affiliation, an abstract of maximum 150 words, five keywords and a list of minimum six references to the address madalinastrechie@gmail.com, until September 8th 2023.
